

The Norman Transcript

March 12, 2011

Pet of the month: Princess

The Norman Transcript

NORMAN — There are always animals at the Noble animal shelter that need “forever homes.” This month’s featured pet is Princess..

Princess is a basset hound mix, “although she doesn’t really look like it,” Jared Cox, Noble Animal Control Officer said. “She appears to be brindle in color with a white chest.”

The puppy is only a couple of weeks old and has been weaned from her mother. She already eats small kibble puppy food. She has not been spayed yet and shows no signs of ill health. Princess is very playful and affectionate and has no problem being around other dogs regardless of their size. She was brought to the shelter by a woman whose granddaughter acquired the pup and was told both of the dog’s parents were basset hounds.

Unable to keep the puppy due to apartment complex regulations, the family brought Princess to the Noble animal shelter. Cox said he has been unable to locate the original owners and has not received any calls about missing puppies matching her description.

Princess and many other dogs both large and small can be seen at the Noble Animal Shelter Monday through Friday 8 a.m.-4 p.m. To make an appointment to see any of the animals at the shelter, call the Noble Police Department at 872-9231 or e-mail nobleaco@yahoo.com.

Animals available for adoption can be seen on Petfinder, www.petfinder.com/shelters/OK176.html